The Promise of Urban Connectors Series Belltown | Elliott Way Connections To Pike Place Market

Join us for for a compelling Beer & Culture focusing on The Promise of Urban Connectors in Belltown/Pike Place Market to discuss opportunities for new connection(s) to the waterfront and other urban design possibilities resulting from, or otherwise inspired by, the Waterfront Project.

Topics include:

- Enliven Elliott Way
- Elliott Way Streetscape & Access to Pike Place Market
- Activate Blanchard Street Hillside
- Refine Landscape Plan for Battery Street Overlook
- Appropriate Uses - Blanchard/Western Surplus Property
- Cultivation of Green Streets: Bell, Vine, Broad

Help us envision key elements necessary to bring The Promise of Urban Connectors into reality to further enhance the experience of Seattle's Waterfront and neighboring communities.

Light Refreshments Provided

Doors Open 5:30

Allied Arts was founded in 1954 under the name of "The Beer and Culture Society". More than fifty-five years later, we continue our outreach and advocacy throughout the Northwest Region. Our Beer & Culture events provide an informal setting for groups of energetic, public-spirited citizens to engage in free-ranging discussions on a variety of topics. The outcome of which may ultimately lead to civic action.
